

NABPR SE Regional Meeting
March 2, 2018
Marriott Perimeter Center
Atlanta, GA

Please join us for refreshments and a conversation on Alicia Myers' new book, Blessed Among Women? Mothers and Motherhood in the New Testament (Oxford, 2017).

- Alicia Myers is Assistant Professor of New Testament and Greek at Campbell University Divinity School and 2018 President of the NABPR SE Region.
- Panelists include: Diane Lipsett (Salem College), Mimi Walker (The Church at Ponce and Highland), and Thomas Dixon (Campbell University).

REVIEWS

"Alicia Myers provides a complex portrait of motherhood in the first century world. Richly detailed, her description highlights philosophical and social conceptions of motherhood. Myers's clearly written book will help readers encounter familiar biblical texts in new ways."

Susan E. Hylan, Candler School of Theology, Emory University

"By attending to maternal motifs in the New Testament and early Christian literature, Myers helpfully problematizes cultural assumptions—both ancient and modern—that equate motherhood with ideal womanhood. . . . [Her book] offers a balanced examination of a key trope in the New Testament and a trenchant reminder of how female bodies helped construct early Christian theologies."

Brittany E. Wilson, Duke University Divinity School

March 2, 2018

2:30-5:00pm